Attorneys for Plaintiff and Counsel for the Class

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

IN RE TESLA, INC. SECURITIES
LITIGATION

Case No. 3:18-cv-04865-EMC

PLAINTIFFS' OBJECTIONS TO COURT'S PROPOSED JURY
INSTRUCTIONS [ECF NO. 535]

Plaintiff respectfully objects to the Court's Proposed Jury Instructions as follows:

JURY INSTRUCTION NO. ____

PRETRIAL STATEMENT / CLAIMS AND DEFENSES

Plaintiff's Objections: Plaintiff objects to the deletion of Plaintiff's proposed language regarding the Court's summary judgment ruling and the nature of Plaintiff's injury. Plaintiff's proposed instruction provides an objective and neutral description of the Court's holding and how the jury should adhere to it going forward. Plaintiff incorporates his previous position statements on this issue with respect to the competing proposed jury instructions.

Plaintiff further objects to the Court's removal of Plaintiff's omissions-theory related to the August 13 blog post. Plaintiff incorporates his previous position statements on this issue with respect to the competing proposed jury instructions.

1 JURY INSTRUCTION NO. ____

2 RULE 10b-5 CLAIM

3 Plaintiff Objections: Plaintiff objects to the proposed language: “You are to assume that 4 the statements ‘Funding secured’ and ‘Investor support is confirmed. Only reason why this is not
5 certain is that it’s contingent on a shareholder vote.’ were untrue.” The Court’s use of the verb 6 “assume” while providing no basis for that assumption is likely to be confusing to the jury who 7 have no understanding as to why they are being instructed to make such an assumption or that it
8 has already been established as a matter of law and cannot be overridden by the jury.

9 The Court's partial summary judgment order is the most important pretrial development
10 in this action, narrowing the issues for trial and framing the jury’s deliberation for the remaining
11 Rule 10b-5 Claim elements. The Court’s jury instructions should reflect its summary judgment
12 order in absolute terms to avoid any confusion or risk of error. Where, as here, courts have made 13 partial summary judgment findings against parties, their instructions reflect those findings with 14 absolute clarity. For example, in STM Networks, Inc. v. Clay Pac. S.R.L., 224 F. App'x 609, 610
15 (9th Cir. 2007) (“The district court did not abuse its discretion in giving jury instructions
16 consistent with its ruling on partial summary judgment.”). When addressing the summary 17 judgment holding, the jury instructions began as follows, “the court has found the following facts
18 to be true” STM Networks, Inc. v. Clay Pac. S.R.L., Case No. SACV03-1796-DOC (MLGx), 19 Dkt. No. 123 at 22 (C.D. Cal., Feb 17, 2005); see also McArthur v. City & Cty. of S.F., 190 F.
20 Supp. 3d 895, 907 (N.D. Cal. 2016) (“Partial summary judgment is further granted as follows.
21 The jury will be instructed that no constitutional violation took place up through and including 22 the searches of all of the men. That issue is now decided and will not be re-litigated at trial but of 23 course sufficient background facts may be allowed”).

24 In Nutri-Metics Int'l, Inc. v. Carrington Lab'ys, Inc., “[t]he court's ruling on the partial 25 summary judgment was read to the jury, both during the trial and as part of the instructions.” 1992 26 WL 389246, at *5 (9th Cir. Dec. 22, 1992). The 9th Circuit found that, “the jury had to be 27 informed whether there was a breach of the [the agreement] once the judge properly decided it as 28 a matter of law.” Id. In Mamola v. Group Mfg. Service, Inc., both parties were granted partial

1 summary judgment on Plaintiffs’ ADA and FMLA claims. 2010 WL 1433491, at *13 (D. Ariz.
2 2010). In that case, the jury was instructed: “[t]he Court has already determined that the 3 defendant’s determination that plaintiff could not drive on the job does not constitute 4 discrimination under the ADA”; and “[i]n this case, I have already determined, as a matter of law,
5 that Plaintiff suffers from impairments that affect major life activities. You will not be required
6 to decide these issues. Mamola v. Group Mfg. Service, Inc., 08-cv-01687-GMS Dkt. No. 227, at 7 27, 29 (D. Ariz., Sept. 30, 2010).

8 In Van v. Language Line Services, Inc., the Court granted partial summary judgment on 9 Plaintiff’s Fair Labor Standards Act Claims. 2016 WL 3143951 at *32 (N.D. Cal. 2016) (“In sum,
10 the Court grants partial summary judgment in favor of Plaintiff as to Defendants’ liability under 11 the UCL for the 136 demonstrated violations of section 226.7 . . .”). The Court instructed the 12 jury that the Defendant, “not schedule Ms. Van for meal periods and rest breaks as required by 13 law, as follows . . .” Van v. Language Line Services, Inc., 14-cv-03791-LHK Dkt. No. 390 at 18
14 (N.D. Cal. July 28, 2016).

15 By instructing the jury to “assume” certain facts, the Court is understating the extent of 16 its factual determinations contained in the summary judgment order. There is no revisiting the 17 fact that Musk’s tweets were false or that he acted with reckless disregard in making them.
18 Instructing jurors to merely “assume” these facts leaves open the possibility that the jury will 19 think it could or should revisit them, which is absolutely not the case. The Court has decided these 20 issues and the jury should have a clear understanding of what has already been decided in the case 21 versus what still needs to be decided.

22 Plaintiff proposes that instead of “You are to assume,” the instruction state that “The Court
23 has already found as a matter of law that the statements ‘Funding secured’ and ‘Investor support
24 is confirmed. Only reason why this is not certain is that it’s contingent on a shareholder vote.’
25 were false. You must still decide whether these statements were material. The Court has already 26 found as a matter of law that Mr. Musk acted with reckless disregard in making these statements.
27 You must still decide whether he knew that the statements were false.” Alternatively, the Court 28 should read portions from its summary judgment order to the jury.

1 Plaintiff further incorporates his previous position statements with respect to the 2 competing proposed jury instructions.

JURY INSTRUCTION NO. ____

MAKER OF MISSTATEMENT

Plaintiff's Objection: Plaintiff objects to the inclusion of a separate jury instruction regarding Maker of Misstatement. The "maker" of a statement is not a model jury instruction. Rather, it is a comment to model instruction 18.2 Rule 10b-5 claim. As there is no standalone instruction for "maker," Plaintiff believes it is better suited in Instruction No. 27 Material Misrepresentation.

1 JURY INSTRUCTION NO. ____

2 MATERIAL MISREPRESENTATION

3 Plaintiff's Objection: Plaintiff objects to the Court's proposed third paragraph in the jury
4 instruction. The Court's proposed instructions on the Rule 10b-5 Claim make it abundantly clear 5 that even though the tweets may be false, the jury still needs to determine whether they are 6 material. In order to make that determination, the model jury instruction regarding materiality is 7 sufficient. Paragraph three of the proposed jury instruction may unduly influence jurors against a 8 finding of materiality by explicitly indicating that a statement can be untrue but not material.
9 Defendants have indicated that they intend to argue that the misstatements were immaterial
10 because of a lack of stock price movement. Allowing Defendants to relitigate whether the 11 statement was "materially false" is prejudicial as it gives Defendants another bite at the apple on 12 falsity and goes against this Court's summary judgment order.

13 Plaintiff also objects to the exclusion of language from the instruction reminding the jury
14 that it need not find whether Elon Musk and/or Tesla misrepresented a fact. Plaintiff asserts that 15 the following language is necessary in the instruction: "The Court has previously determined that 16 the evidence in this case demonstrated conclusively that with regard to the statement "Am 17 considering taking Tesla private at $420. Funding secured." the statement "funding secured" was 18 false. Further, with regard to the statement "Investor support is confirmed. Only reason why this 19 is not certain is that it's contingent on a shareholder vote." the Court also decided that the evidence
20 in this case demonstrated conclusively that this entire statement was false. Consequently, you 21 shall accept that Plaintiff has already proven that the tweets on August 7, 2018, were false and/or 22 misleading at the time they were made." To avoid confusion, Plaintiff's instruction reminds the 23 jury that the issue of "falsity" has already been resolved for the August 7 tweets and that the jury
24 need only deliberate over whether the tweets were "material." Any instruction on this element
25 without this clarification would run the risk of allowing the jury to reconsider the Court's partial 26 summary judgment holdings, that these tweets were false. Thus, for the same reasons this 27 instruction was necessary at the outset of the trial, it is all the more necessary here when tasking
28 the jury to deliberate on this critical element of Plaintiff's Rule 10b-5 Claim.

1 Plaintiff further incorporates his previous position statements with respect to the
2 competing proposed jury instructions.

1 JURY INSTRUCTION NO. ____

2 SCIENTER OR STATE OF MIND

3 Plaintiff's Objections: Plaintiff objects to the proposed language: "You are to assume 4 that Elon Musk made the statements 'Funding secured' and 'Investor support is confirmed. Only 5 reason why this is not certain is that it's contingent on a shareholder vote.' with at least reckless 6 disregard for whether the statements were true." The Court's use of the verb assume while 7 providing no basis for that assumption is likely to be confusing to the jury who have no
8 understanding as to why they are being instructed to make that assumption. The Court has found
9 that Mr. Musk made these statements recklessly; the jury should be instructed as such. Omitting
10 reference to the fact that the Court has found as a matter of law that that Mr. Musk acted recklessly 11 in making the tweets will irrevocably prejudice the jury, as instructing jurors to assume something 12 without providing any basis for that assumption will lead to confusion and questioning as to why
13 Plaintiff is not presenting evidence on this elements. It will likely result in jurors assuming that 14 there simply is no evidence to present. The Court has decided these issues and the jury should 15 have a clear understanding of what has already been decided in the case. Plaintiff reincorporates
16 the objections concerning the summary judgment instruction, as described previously in response
17 to the Court's proposed instruction "Rule 10b-5 Claim".

18 Plaintiff proposes that instead of "You are to assume," the instruction state that "The Court
19 has already found as a matter of law that Elon Musk made the statements 'Funding secured' and 20 'Investor support is confirmed. Only reason why this is not certain is that it's contingent on a 21 shareholder vote.' with at least reckless disregard for whether the statements were true. You must 22 still decide whether he acted knowingly." Alternatively, the Court should read the relevant 23 portions of its summary judgment order to the jury.

24 Plaintiff further incorporates his previous position statements with respect to the 25 competing proposed jury instructions.

1 JURY INSTRUCTION NO. ____

2 IMPUTATION OF SCIENTER

3 Plaintiff's Objections: Plaintiff objects to the second paragraph of the instruction to the 4 extent that it adds the language: "and was acting within the scope of his authority while tweeting
5 the statements at issue on August 7." This language directly contradicts the Court's previous 6 comments with respect to the "Corporate Entities" instruction. There, the Court commented that 7 "As a result, Tesla Inc. may be liable [as a maker] whether or not Mr. Musk, was acting within 8 the scope of his authority if Tesla Inc. is found to be a 'maker' of the Musk Tweets." With respect
9 to that instruction, the Court indicated that the language regarding Mr. Musk acting with the scope
10 of his authority imputing liability to Tesla "will not be included...because it risks confusing and 11 misleading the jury that Tesla Inc. is only liable through Mr. Musk, regardless of other theories 12 of liability." If Tesla is found to be a maker, then the instruction regarding Musk acting within 13 the scope of his authority may improperly limit a determination of corporate scienter.

14 Case law holds that a corporate entity can act with scienter separate and apart from any 15 one corporate officer's state of mind. In Glazer Capital Mgmt., LP v. Magistri, 549 F.3d 736, 16 743-44 (9th Cir. 2008), the Ninth Circuit described alternative means to proving scienter against 17 corporate entity, including where statements are "so important and so dramatically false that they 18 would create a strong inference that at least some corporate officials knew of the falsity upon 19 publication." Id. (quoting Makor Issues & Rights, Ltd. v. Tellabs Inc., 513 F.3d 702, 710 (7th Cir.
20 2008)). Likewise, the Ninth Circuit also allows plaintiffs to demonstrate scienter against a 21 corporate entity when "facts critical to . . . an important transaction are known to a company's 22 key officers." See S. Ferry LP, No. 2 v. Killinger, 542 F.3d 776, 783-84 (9th Cir. 2008). Thus, the 23 Court's proposed jury instruction invalidly limits Tesla's potential liability by effectively
24 conditioning it upon a finding that Musk was acting within his scope of employment.

25 Plaintiff further incorporates his previous position statements with respect to the 26 competing proposed jury instructions.

1 JURY INSTRUCTION NO. ____

2 RELIANCE

3 Plaintiff's Objections: Plaintiff objects to paragraph (3) in this instruction as it does not
4 accurately reflect the standard as it pertains to the misstatements in this case. Rather than stating 5 that "The misrepresentations were publicly known and material, meaning that a reasonable 6 investor would have regarded what was not disclosed to them as having significantly altered the 7 total mix of information...", in order to reflect the misstatements in this case, the "what was not
8 disclosed to them" clause should be replaced with "the misrepresentations."

9 The Court's proposed instruction also introduces unnecessary and confusing instructions
10 pertaining to issues of individual reliance. The case law widely holds that issues of individual 11 reliance can and should be addressed post-verdict. See Smilovits v. First Solar, Inc., No. CV12-12 0555-PHX-DGC, 2019 WL 6698199, at *6 (D. Ariz. Dec. 9, 2019) (explaining that "'courts in 13 securities fraud actions have consistently recognized that issues of individual reliance can and 14 should be addressed after a class-wide trial'") (citation omitted).

15 Plaintiff further incorporates his previous position statements with respect to the 16 competing proposed jury instructions.

JURY INSTRUCTION NO. _____

LOSS CAUSATION

Plaintiff's Objections: Plaintiff objects to the additional sentence added by the Court regarding disaggregation. Plaintiff does not believe that sentence is necessary under the loss causation instruction as this is an argument on damages. Additionally, this sentence creates confusion regarding the law on loss causation where “other contributing forces will not bar recovery under the loss causation requirement.” Boff Holding, 977 F.3d at 790. This sentence suggests that the consequential damages that Plaintiff intends to demonstrate may not be recoverable and thereby contravenes established law. See Ambassador Hotel Co. v. Wei-Chuan Inv., 189 F.3d 1017, 1030 (9th Cir. 1999) (holding that consequential damages that “with reasonable certainty ... have resulted from the fraud” may be recovered under Rule 10b-5). As previously argued, the negative effects on the prices of Tesla securities following the public revelation of details of the SEC investigation, which ultimately result in the SEC’s complaints and settlements, are powerful evidence of consequential harm.

If the Court insists that disaggregation be addressed through this instruction, Plaintiff suggests that the sentence replace “misrepresentations at issue” with “fraud at issue” so as to not exclude the possibility of consequential damages. Plaintiff notes that the Court addresses disaggregation in the Damages instruction and believes that inclusion in the Loss Causation instruction is redundant and inappropriate.

Plaintiff further incorporates his previous position statements with respect to the competing proposed jury instructions.

JURY INSTRUCTION NO. ____

DAMAGES

Plaintiff's Objections: Plaintiff objects to the final sentence of the proposed jury instruction stating that "Plaintiff also has the burden of separating out the price decline, if any, caused by factors other than the alleged misrepresentations." As previously argued to the Court, the attempt to inject the concept of disaggregation into the Model Instruction is confusing and prejudicial to Plaintiff because it improperly presumes there are "factors other than the alleged misrepresentations" that caused Plaintiff's losses. To the extent that the Court deems it necessary to introduce the concept of disaggregation into the Jury Instructions, Plaintiff asserts that it should be included in the Damages instruction, as opposed to the Loss Causation instruction.

Plaintiff further incorporates his previous position statements with respect to the competing proposed jury instructions.
